PROJECTS

Simon game (JavaScript-based) :

- The Simon Game is a popular electronic memory game that has captivated players of all ages . The game consists of a small electronic device with four buttons: red, blue, green, and yellow. The device produces a sequence of lights and sounds that the player must memorize and reproduce accurately. The game starts with a single light and sound, and with each successful round, the sequence lengthens, becoming progressively more difficult.Players must pay close attention to the order in which the buttons light up and produce sounds, as they need to replicate the exact sequence without making any mistakes. A single wrong move results in the game ending, and players have to start again from the beginning.
